Date created: 14/03/2024

Our first webinar of the year will explore your legal obligations to notify Ahpra if you've formed a reasonable belief that a health practitioner or student may be placing the public at risk by engaging in particular types of conduct in connection with their clinical practice.

In this session, our in-house experts will discuss:

Concerns: What concerns must be reported and what are the exceptions.

Student requirements: What are the mandatory notification requirements for students.

Who and How: Who does mandatory reporting apply to, who must make a notification and how does someone make a notification.

Protections: What protections are available for practitioners who make a mandatory notification.

Learning Outcomes

At the end of this session, participants will be able to:

- Discuss the mandatory reporting obligations and exceptions for healthcare practitioners and students under the National Law.
- Discuss medico-legal scenarios that illustrate how to implement Ahpra's guidelines for mandatory notifications.
- Identify strategies to support you and your colleagues to promote wellbeing and mitigate medico-legal risk in daily practice.
