

Investigating Deaths: Exploring Your Role in the Australian Coronial System

Reading time:

MIPS Education

Date created: 04/04/2025

The Australian coronial system investigates reportable deaths to determine their causes and help prevent future fatalities.

Join us for an insightful discussion on its structure, functions, and key jurisdictional variations across states and territories.

Through real-world case studies, our panel will highlight important considerations for medical practitioners, from junior doctors to specialists in private practice.

Watch the webinar

Learning outcomes

By the end of this session, you will be able to:

- Discuss the roles and responsibilities of key stakeholders within the Australian coronial system.
- Explore areas of potential medico-legal risk for different healthcare professionals who may be involved in the certification or reporting of a patient's death in Australia.
- Discuss practical strategies to minimise medico-legal risk in clinical practice.

MIPS resources

- MIPS on Demand Online modules with CPD

Watch the webinar

---